For TALC this was a year of progress particularly in the electronic field. Our e-TALC office in Oxford produced the first CD in July of 2002. If you work in a developing country and have a computer, which will accept a CD and would like to receive a free CD do contact us.

We distributed 3,000 of the first CD and I am pleased to say we have had delighted responses from around the world. Do let us know what you find particularly useful. We will always welcome suggestions for reliable copyright free material that we can use on future CDs.

TALC is now accepting books from many publishers and you will find a much greater selection this year. However, we have managed to keep our prices down and many are at least 20% less than those in most bookshops.

We particularly welcome this year a much needed book on mental health, Where There is No Psychiatrist. Many of you will have used Maurice King’s books in the past and we are delighted now to have Primary Mother Care available. Caring for Severely Malnourished Children by Ann Ashworth and Ann Burgess is another important text. The long awaited 21st Edition of Manson’s Tropical Diseases is also included, please note that a country restricted special low cost version is also available.

This year’s catalogue carries a new heading, Health in Schools. Do draw to the attention of schoolteachers the appropriate and low cost series of books, for use by teachers and children.

Lastly, I personally, and the staff of TALC are always pleased to hear from you and we hope we can help you in providing appropriate and better health care.

Professor David Morley CBE, MD, FRCP
Founder & President

(Available in English, French, Swahili) £25.00
Slides

Slides are excellent for giving lectures because, unlike films and videos, you can spend extra time discussing the subjects they cover. TALC slides cover a wide range of medical and health subjects and are provided with scripts written by experts in their field so that the information given is the best. In addition, the script also has questions and answers which are a useful aid to lecturers. Some of the scripts have an audio commentary available (indicated by this symbol ⪒) which records all the information contained in the script.

TALC also provides a free slide viewer to help lecturers prepare their presentation and lend to pupils.

Unless otherwise stated, slide sets contain 24 slides together with the script. They are supplied mounted, and optionally can be purchased in a presentation folder. You need to state your preference on the order form. Although some of the slides date back quite a few years they are still useable because the subjects they cover have not changed, for example the set below on American Helminths which is about different types of parasitic worms.

When giving a lecture using slides you need to keep to the point and only talk about what is illustrated on the slide. It is a good idea to ask one student to be a pointer and to stand at the screen to show the rest of the audience to what the commentary refers. You need to give the audience plenty of time to study the slides and let them try to answer the questions. You should also be prepared to stop for discussion and clarification.

If you are reading the text to yourself cover the answer to the questions with a piece of paper, to stop your eye running on to the answer before you have time to think of it for yourself. You will remember more if you do this.

American Helminths (AMH): 1978 Shows the parasitic worms of South America which are also present in many other countries. They are divided into four classes, flukes (including Schistosomes), tapeworms, roundworms and filaria. The set also shows helminth eggs and larvae. ⪒ From £5.50

Anaemia: Reporting Blood Films (HGY): 1986 Shows you how to report blood films of patients with anaemia and also shows how anaemia is associated with malaria and other infections and deficiencies. Useful for situations where there is no technologist or pathologist available to report on a blood film. ⪒ From £5.50

Back Pain and Disability (BAC) 1989 Provides an outline of how to recognise different causes of back pain, so that you know when and to whom to refer a patient. ⪒ From £5.50

Breast Feeding Problems (BFP): 1993 Describes by means of case histories of mothers and babies who have had problems, some common causes of breast feeding failure and how to manage them. Complementary to the Breast Feeding slide set and assumes familiarity with the ideas in that set. ⪒ From £5.50

Caring for Children in Hospital (CCH): 1997 Makes health workers aware of the needs of children of different age groups who have come to hospital and shows what actions can be taken to make them feel happier and more comfortable with hospital procedures. Suitable for everybody concerned with caring for children in hospital including parents. From £5.50

Care of the Nerve Damaged Limb (LPN): 1986 Describes the cycle of deformity and disability that may occur when a patient has nerve damage to a limb and shows how patients can learn to care for their limbs and keep them active. Useful for health workers who care for those with nerve damage. ⪒ From £5.50
CBR of Children with Disabilities in Morocco (CBRM): 1996 Describes how a community based rehabilitation project which actively involves the community was set-up and started. Of particular interest to rehabilitation workers. The TALC book, Disabled Village Children, could also be useful for people interested in this field. From £5.50

Charting Growth (CHG): 1978 Describes growth charts, how to use them, how to read them and how to recognise when children are malnourished. If you want to obtain growth charts or measuring equipment details are available in the Accessories section of this catalogue. From £5.50

Childhood Development (CHD): 1976 Goes through the first year of a child’s life pointing out what stages they should get to and how delay in reaching these stages can sometimes indicate retardation. From £5.50

Children and Smoking (SMC): 1996 Discusses what causes children to smoke and the health risks that result from smoking, followed by details of ways to prevent children from getting the habit, and a discussion on how effective these ideas are. The TALC child reader, Deadly Habits, which warns children against smoking may also be of interest to people needing this slide set. From £5.50

Chronic Periodontal Disease (DNPD): 1983 Gives details of the causes and how to spot this mouth disease that starts in childhood and causes loss of teeth in adults. Shows how good oral hygiene can prevent it. From £5.50

Clinical Signs in Six Target Diseases (COTD): 1983 Describes the main clinical features of measles, whooping cough, tetanus, poliomyelitis, diphtheria and tuberculosis which are the six diseases that the immunisation programme aims to prevent. Ideal for healthcare workers who care for children. From £5.50

Cold Chain (COV): 1988 How to store and handle vaccines and look after cold chain equipment (48 slides). From £11.00

Common Oral Diseases (DNCD): 1985 An introduction to oral diseases including periodontal disease and dental caries and their prevention. Also describes how a health worker should examine a patient’s mouth and gives details of the common problems that a dental worker meets. From £5.50

Community Based Rehabilitation (CBR): 1989 A general introduction to the needs of disabled children and their families and the role of the community rehabilitation worker. Goes well with the TALC book, Disabled Village Children. From £5.50

Complementary Foods and Energy (WFE): 1998 Explains why bulky starchy foods may not provide enough kilocalories and thus cause malnutrition and also shows how a mother can increase the amount of energy food for her child. Community workers may also find that the TALC book, Nutrition Handbook for Community Workers, provides useful information to supplement this slide set. From £5.50

Development in the First Year (DFY): 1982 Shows the main developmental stages in the first year of life and how to recognise variations from what is normal. From £5.50

The Discharging Ear (DE): 1998 Helps you diagnose and treat ear diseases even when an otoscope for looking into the ear is not available. Particularly useful for health workers responsible for seeing patients with ear disease who feel they do not have enough expert knowledge. From £5.50
Dengue Haemorrhagic Fever (HFE): 1988 Covers the clinical presentation, pathology and control of dengue virus infection, with special emphasis on dengue shock syndrome. From £5.50

Feeding Children in West Africa (FWA): 1971 About nutrition education. From £5.50

Foot Problems in Childhood (FTC): 1988 Describes the congenital and acquired conditions of the foot which may occur in childhood and emphasises the importance of recognising and treating these conditions as early as possible. From £5.50

Growth (GR): 1971 Examines key stages of child growth and development. From £5.50

Guinea Worm (GWM): 1979 Describes the life cycle of the guinea worm, the symptoms of infection, transmission of the disease and action to prevent infection. From £5.50

Hearing and Deafness in Children (HD): 1996 Shows you how to observe and deal with hearing loss in children and identify those children who are probably deaf and should be referred to a specialist centre. From £5.50

HIV Infection in Children: (HIVP): 1992 An overview of HIV infection in children in Africa including epidemiology, transmission, clinical manifestations, management and community issues. (48 slides) From £11.00

HIV Infection –Prevention and Counselling (HIVE): 1989 How to prevent the spread of HIV by education to encourage safer sex and strengthening health care practices. Also considers the care and counselling of people infected with HIV. From £5.50

HIV/AIDS Clinical Manifestations and their Management: 2003 - Including, discussion points on introduction to HART (Highly Active Retro-viral Therapy) in developing countries. This set illustrates the most frequent manifestations of HIV infection in adults to enable doctors, especially those who may not yet be familiar with the disease, to recognise both early and late signs. The set will feature the most common opportunistic infections experienced by people with HIV in various regions, and describe investigations likely to be feasible in resource-poor settings. Available with images and script for the following regions: South Asia (HIVCM-S), South East Asia (HIVCM-E), Africa (HIVCM-F). New addition to TALC list. Introductory prices from £3.50

HIV/AIDS Parent to child transmission: 2003 its diagnosis and prevention. The set presents a broad approach to prevention of parent to child transmission of HIV, including consideration of primary and secondary prevention strategies that include non-test-dependent interventions that do not depend on antenatal HIV testing as well as anti-retroviral prophylaxis. The set takes a ‘child survival’ approach recognising that the aim is to increase the number of healthy children, rather than simply prevention of mother to child transmission of HIV. The approach emphasises the importance of follow up support and care for mothers as well as babies. Available with images and script appropriate for the following regions: South Asia (HIVP-S), South East Asia (HIVP-E), Africa (HIVP-F). New addition to TALC list. Introductory prices from £3.50

HIV/AIDS Virology and Transmission: 2003 Basic facts for courses and workshops on HIV, including prevention. The set presents ‘basic facts’ about the human immunodeficiency virus that are necessary to understand the rationale for prevention and care efforts. The set will help health professionals to be able to explain the infection to students and patients. Available with slides and script appropriate for the following regions: South Asia (HIVT-S), South East Asia (HIVT-E), Africa (HIVT-F). New addition to TALC list. Introductory prices from £3.50
Iodine Deficiency Disorders (IDD): 1995 Considers disorders caused by iodine deficiency and how to recognise communities where iodine deficiency is a public health problem and methods and management of control.  From £5.50

Jamkhed (JAM): 1977 Description of the Jamkhed community project in India covering health care and agricultural development in which the Aroles (two Indian doctors) work with villagers to solve health problems.  From £5.50

Leprosy in Childhood (LP): 1998 A general introduction to leprosy with particular reference to children. Describes treatment with multi-drug therapy.  From £5.50

Malnutrition in an Urban Environment (MUE): 1998 Discusses the causes and consequences and how to prevent undernutrition in young urban children using case studies from a South East Asian city. The TALC Weight for Height chart to distinguish stunting and acute malnutrition, which is listed in the Accessories section, may be of interest to people using this set.  From £5.50

Management of Cough in Children (mainly African) (ARI): 1998 Describes how to assess children with coughs and difficult breathing and decide on their treatment (French script and slides also available).  From £5.50

Management of Cough in Asian Children (ARIE): 1992 Same as above but Asian based.  From £5.50

Natural History of Childhood TB (TBNH): 1975 Shows the natural history of untreated primary tuberculosis infection in children and describes the complications that might follow. Includes case histories.  From £5.50

Newborn Development (NBD): 1976 Looks at some of the developmental features in newborns to help health workers determine a baby’s gestational age.  From £5.50

Obesity in Childhood (OST): 1989 Describes the causes, diagnosis, management and prevention of childhood obesity.  From £5.50

Onchocerciasis in Africa (ONC): 1995 Describes the disease its epidemiology, pathology, signs and symptoms and deals with the life cycle of the parasitic worm that causes it.  From £5.50

Peer Group Education in AIDS and STD Programmes (HIVM): 1995 About the Malawi AIDS control Programme which has been implementing a peer group education programme among key target groups, and provides a training module that can be used to plan peer group education for targeted interventions for the control of AIDS and sexually transmitted diseases.  From £5.50

Physiology of Women (PHW): 1996 The development and anatomy of the reproductive system in women. Covers menstruation, conception and development during pregnancy.  From £5.50

Planning Urban Community Health (PLN): 1987 Shows you how to assess the health and health related problems of those living in a slum community and how to plan with them ways of improving their living conditions. (48 slides).  From £11.00

Playgroups for Pre-Schoolchildren in Africa (PSA): 1998 Illustrates how playgroups help children’s health and development. Covers physical activities, home made toys, music, dressing up, acting, and development of intellectual and domestic skills.  From £11.00
Pre-school Development in Asia (PSE): 1985 Shows how local communities in Thailand make low cost toys and play materials to develop the physical and mental skills of young children.  From £5.50

Primary Eye Care (EYP): 1985 Discusses common eye conditions and some serious eye diseases which are likely to be encountered by somebody working at a health centre and considers their prevention and treatment.  From £5.50

Protozoa of South America (AMP): 1978 This is a slightly misleading heading because the protozoa concerned are found all over the world. The protozoa shown are malaria, trypanosomiasis, Leishmaniasis, amoebias, balantidium coli, toxoplasmosis, and pneumocystis carinii.  From £5.50

Raising Awareness of Safe Motherhood (ASM): 1996 Describes safe motherhood problems and the causes of poor maternal health, includes the key social economic and political factors affecting maternal health. From £5.50

Schistosomiasis and Intestinal Helminths (STD): 1985 Diagnostic techniques for major helminth infections and guidelines for making and reporting surveys. Also considers urine filtration techniques and faecal thick smear examination techniques.  From £5.50

Serious Problems in Early Pregnancy (SPEP): 1998 Teaches you how to look after women with early pregnancy complications. Includes an expert section for teachers who want to know more or for those who teach medical students. Suitable for doctors, senior nurses and midwives. From £5.50

Sexually Transmitted Diseases (STR): 1990 Shows how to recognise and treat common sexually transmitted diseases including manifestations in babies. Designed to be used with the TALC slide sets on HIV infection Relevant books are also to be found in the HIV /AIDS and Sexual Health section of this catalogue.  From £5.50

Treatment of Severely Malnourished Children (TSMC): 2000 For staff in health centres, hospitals and emergency feeding programmes concerned with the management of severely malnourished children. Gives the basic principles of inpatient care and provides guidelines for the inpatient medical and dietary treatment of severely malnourished children. From £5.50

Undernutrition in Young Children (PED): 1998 Describes the physical signs of undernutrition in children, including typical growth curves and arm circumference measurements. Also outlines the main causes of undernutrition. The TALC Direct Recording Scale to monitor child growth, and insertion tapes to measure the circumference of the arm are available in the Accessories section of this catalogue.  From £5.50

Viral Hepatitis and Possibilities for Control (HEP): 1988 Explains recent advances in our understanding of viral hepatitis and the problems that it can cause. It also explains the difference between hepatitis A and hepatitis B and shows how hepatitis B is spread and how it might be controlled.  From £5.50

Xerophthalmia (EYX): 1998 Shows how to recognise the early signs of vitamin A deficiency and gives details of the clinical appearance and treatment of Xerophthalmia and the prevention of nutritional blindness.  From £5.50

X-rays in Childhood (XRC): 1971 Indicates the value of certain x-ray techniques and shows various conditions which may be recognised on x-rays of specific regions of the body such as the spine.  From £5.50
Accessories

TALC’s movement into accessories was started by TALC President, Professor David Morley, who developed the Direct Recording Scale and through this decided there was a need for measuring equipment which was simpler and cheaper than that already available. With his experience in founding the Child-to-Child movement, Professor Morley realised there was a need for measuring equipment that illiterate mothers could understand and which would also help them with numeracy. This led to the Fundal height measure, and the insertion tapes, which Professor Morley designed to help family members understand and take action against faltering growth.

As always there is a big demand for TALC rehydration spoons which give measured doses of sugar and salt to put in a glass of water to counter diarrhoea. These have been used in trouble spots all over the world and have proved to be a simple way of saving the lives of hundreds of children.

The TALC Direct Recording Scale provides a low cost way to monitor child growth and helps mothers to understand the meaning of the growth curve and take action if growth is too slow. The kit contains a plastic scale, an instruction leaflet, a plastic wall chart and 30 child health charts which are available in English, Arabic, Filipino, French, Portuguese, Spanish and Zulu. £16.50 (weighing trousers for use with the scale are available at £3.75 each.

Child Health Charts: For use by health workers to record the child’s personal details including weight, immunisations, visits to the clinic and other important information. Printed on plasticised paper which is almost untearable and available in the seven languages listed for the Direct Recording Scale. Discounts are offered for quantities of 1,000 or more. £0.25 each

Weight for Height Chart: to distinguish stunting and acute malnutrition. The chart is printed on a large sheet and should be placed against a wall. A health worker then weighs the child and stands it against the column marked with the weight. The coloured bands indicate if the child is underweight for his height. Details can be put down on the child health chart. £5.75 per sheet.
TALC Baby Scale: Identical to the Direct Recording Scale except this scale has a spring which stretches 1cm for every 200 gms. As newborns should increase by at least 200gms each week this allows daily plotting of weight gain. £16.50

Fundal Height Measure: Used for charting and measuring the growth of the uterus. A tape measure is provided which records weeks of pregnancy and height in centimetres and growth of the uterus on the chart. By using it the midwife will be able to inform the mother of likely date of delivery, identify twins and other problems which may affect safe delivery. £0.95 tape and 1 chart extra charts £0.25 each

Circumference and Insertion Tapes: The circumference tape of 100cm can be used to measure the circumferences of parts of the body up to one metre such as the adult head, chest and abdomen and is used for assessing under nutrition in pregnant women. Various figures are given of the lower or upper limit and what is “normal.”

The smaller insertion tape of 39 cm is used to measure the upper arm circumference of a child in order to assess weight loss and malnutrition. The circumference tapes are £1.00 each and the insertion tapes are £0.25. Discounts are available for large purchases.

Sugar and Salt Measures: A spoon to measure sugar and salt accurately in order to treat diarrhoea which causes the body to lose salt and water. Salt can not be replaced by eating on its own, but using the spoon to put both measures of salt and sugar and in a glass of water helps your body absorb the salt and provide rehydration. Available with instructions on the spoon in English, Arabic, Chinese, Portuguese and Spanish. French instructions are available with the English spoon. £0.16 each. Discount for bulk orders.

Height Measure: A new method of measuring which allows children to read off their heights accurately. Consists of a headpiece which can be moved up and down against a height measuring scale giving a precise figure of the height which appears through a cut out slot. Self assembly - full instructions included. £19.50.

ThermoSpot (Hypothermia Indicator): A simple way for mothers to check their newborn babies are not cold. When put under a newborn’s armpit, the black disk turns green and a smiling face appears as long as the infant’s temperature is over 35.5C. Packet of 25 disks £2.50.

Zeal Clinical Thermometer: A low cost, non-glass, direct reading re-usable thermometer which reads from 35.5C. Can be placed under the tongue to give a reading in one minute, and under the armpit in three minutes. (Free sample available on request) £0.15 each.

Family Planning STD and AIDS Flannelgraph: Five sheets of pictures printed in colour on rough flannel with a 55 page text. Appropriate for lecturing about the sensitive topics of family planning, STD’s and AIDS in a variety of situations. The pictures are African and can be adapted to suit various groups. £15.00.
Haemoglobin Colour Scale: A simple device for estimating haemoglobin, intended for use when laboratory haemoglobinometry is not available. The kit consists of a booklet containing a set of six shades of red and a pack of absorbent test strips. By matching the colour of a drop of blood on a test strip with one of the shades of red you can see if the blood is anaemic and how severe it is. £15.50.

Bench Aids for Dermatology: 2003. B Leppard – A set of 4 full colour laminated bench aids which include the following common skin diseases atopic eczema, common bacterial infections, herpes zoster, ringworm, scabies and tina captis. Ideal for quick reference and identification of diseases with useful information on diagnosis, clinical features and treatment. Ideal for healthworkers, students and teachers (available in English and Swahili). New addition to TALC list. £4.00

Bench Aids for the Diagnosis of Malaria Infections: (2nd Edition): Set of 12 weatherproof plastic-sealed A4 size separate plates which provide guidance on the preparation of thick and thin blood film and extensive details of staining techniques. The life cycle of the malaria parasite is explained and there are guidelines for the safe handling of blood. The bench aids are intended both as a guide for laboratory and field workers in endemic countries and as a teaching aid for students and trainees. £9.75.

PictureCard Training Packs: Contains flash card pictures which can be referred to by students while the healthcare trainer provides information from a specialised script. The lecturer displays the images and the students are supplied with special handouts which contain smaller versions of the images being shown and have space to enable them to take notes which can be used later for revision.

Each pack of hand-outs has ten sets of individual sheets of miniaturised images. The entire package is designed for use in any environment from a basic village setting to a University tutorial group and is ideally suited to small groups of ten and under. The complete pack is offered in a secure binder.

The subjects are:

Breastfeeding which considers the importance of breast feeding to both mother and baby and how to achieve it. Revised script (six sheets) £12.50

Sexually Transmitted Diseases Shows how to recognise and treat common sexually transmitted diseases. (Please note this set does not include any information relating to HIV /AIDS) (six sheets) £12.50.

TB - A Global Emergency: This package provides information on statistics, trends and control measures of this serious global emergency (12 sheets) £19.50.

TALC Baby: An A3 sheet of paper. Stick it onto cardboard and cut it out to give a two-dimensional model with which to illustrate the importance of the position of the baby’s head during birth. Available in English, Arabic, French, Portuguese and Spanish. Free.
TALC Cord Cutting Sheet: Self assembly model which allows students to carry out the tying and cutting of the cord many times before they undertake it in practice. Designed for traditional birth attendants, but could also be useful for nursing schools. Available free.

Plastic Bottles in Primary Health Care: Used plastic drinking bottles can be used for sterilising drinking water, as asthma inhalers and as a fly trap. Sterilising water is done by exposing a full bottle of water to the sunlight which will kill off the vast majority of bacteria within an hour. For asthma the bottle needs a hole the size of an inhaler to be made at the bottom, it can then be used as a spacer to get over the problem of taking a breath in, when the inhaler is used. The fly trap is made using two plastic bottles. The lower one is the bait bottle and the upper one the trap, flies are attracted to the bait bottle and then fly up into the trap bottle and die. A leaflet on the use of plastic bottles in primary health care is available FREE from TALC.

Growth Assessment Charts: These consist of two charts, one for boys and one for girls. On each chart one side is for measuring children up to 2 and the other for 2-16 year olds. The chart for two year olds covers head length and weight measurements. A child whose growth curve deviates from the normal and crosses over the guidelines should be monitored and referred to a senior health worker. FREE samples of the charts are available on request. Only for use in developing countries.

- Girl growth chart (Pk of 100) £3.00.
- Boy Growth chart (Pk of 100) £3.00.
- 1 pack of each (special price) £5.00.

About Teaching-aids At Low Cost

TALC was founded in 1965 by Professor David Morley CBE, MD, FRCP, when he was a lecturer at the Institute of Child Health, in response to many requests from overseas students for teaching equipment to use in their own countries.

After starting out in a small way sending out transparencies, demand grew and the charity expanded into distributing books and teaching-aids. Since then TALC has continued to grow and has distributed over 10 million books, slides and accessories relating to health and community issues to thousands of health workers throughout the developing world.

Use of these has enabled doctors and health workers to make the right diagnosis and provide the right treatment, resulting in the saving of many lives and the alleviation of an enormous amount of pain and suffering.

You can help us in our work by making a donation to help those many people and organisations in developing countries who need help but have no money to pay for it.

Ill-health leads to poverty and poverty breeds ill-health. TALC provides self-help materials to people to combat poverty and believes that the low-cost teaching materials it provides will continue to raise standards of healthcare throughout the world.
